STOP WOMEN

from exercising common sense? You can't do it. As the old rhyme runs: "The man's a fool who tries by force or skill To turn the current of a woman's will For if she will, she will, you may depend on't And if she won't she won't, so there's an end on't."

Common sense tells a woman that when she's sick she needs a doctor.

Common sense tells a woman that in disease the first question is not of man or woman, but of recognized medical ability.

Common sense applied to advertisements woman, but of recognized medical ability.

Common sense applied to advertisements which invite women to "write to a woman because she is a woman and understands women," will show the women so appealed to, that it's no use to write to any woman about disease unless that woman is a physician.
Common sense used in the reading of advertisements will discover that no claim is made in them to a physician's knowledge or diploma. And that is not because the claim would be morally culpable as a lie, but because it would be legally punishable as a fraud. The law permits you to masquerade as a doctor in an advertisement, just so long as you don't actually claim to be a doctor, or put M. D. after your name. That's why the advertisement is worded "write to a woman" instead of write to a doctor.
Common sense has brought more than half-a-million women, afflicted with some form of female disease, to Dr. R. V. Pierce as one of the most expert physicians in the United States in the treatment of female diseases. Dr. Pierce is a specialist. He has given more than thirty years of active practice to the treatment of female diseases. Dr. Pierce is not a "physician" by courtesy. He is a physician regularly graduated, legally empowered to practice and with thirty years of experience in the treatment of diseases of women, which he has made his specialty.

The offer of free consultation by letter made by Dr. Pierce is a real offer, an honest offer. It is an offer backed by a medical

The offer of free consultation by letter made by Dr. Pierce is a real offer, an honest offer. It is an offer backed by a medical institution, with a world-wide reputation, a staff of nearly a score of regularly graduated physicians, a practice which reaches every state in the Union and a record of more than half-a-million women treated and ninety-eight out of every hundred perfectly cured.

Write to a doctor. That's the first thing. Write to the doctor. That's the next thing. The woman's doctor, is Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, V. Y.

MEN MAY LIVE 250 YEARS.

Knowing that the whole world would be deeply interested in the promising experiments through which Dr. Elie Metchnikoff in Paris is preparing, with a series of serums, to greatly prolong human life, a correspondent on Satur-day sought some detailed explanation thereof from the doctor himself. The result was that Dr. Metchnikoff prepared and gave to his vistor the following signed statement:

Through some indiscretion the public has been notified prematurely of the experiments I and my staff of assistants finding and removing the causes of senile decay. Public expectation seems to have become so excited that the reserve now might do more harm the

We first discovered a means of prolonging life, at n we have found a road which we think, leads to a certain point, but we have not traveled on it to the end, and there may be many unforeseen turns and obstacles, Human beings die too early-unnaturally early.

In the animal kingdom the usual natural duration of life is approxim tely ten times the period occupied in the process of maturing. An elephant matures at 30 years of age and lives to 300. Man, therefore, should live to be 250 years old. Only we introduce into our rgans were never meant to cope with, aud we live under such abnormal con-ditions that our organism always gives way, somewhere or other, long before

Our organs are composed of two sorts of tissues. One, which we will call the conjunctive or plebian tissue, supports or enwraps the other, which may be termed the noble element. By the no-ble elements I mean the conglomera-tion of cells characteristic of the organ

known that whenever one organ ceases to perform its duty death ensues.

Therefore, the remedy against senile atrophy was to be sought in the shape of some serum which would reach the organ or organs menaced and feed and strengthen its noble elements sufficiently to enable them to fight the poisons or microbes, or both, circulating in the system, and resist the encroachment of the plebeian tissue.

We shall probably always be unable to prolong life by injecting a single serum, just as now we are unable to operate on the heart, nerves, brain and bowels with the same drug. It is not one serum we seek, but a series of them.

We have found that the organs can be reached separately by injecting serums, and, in a general way, we are convinced that we are on the right track as to what must enter into the composition of these se-rums to strengthen the nobler cells. But probably years will elapse before, step by step and, after countless experiments, we can at last announce we have something as positive and as thoroughly tested as Pasteur's cure for bydrophobia, for instance.

Our hope is to provide certain threatened cells with artificial aids, which will make them fit to cope with Very shortly we shall have the means and feel sufficiently advanced in our investigations to conduct some prudent experiments upon human beings. Scientifically, the possibility of pro-longing life is established—practically —God knows when we shall discover it.

How the prolongation of human life so it should last, mortally, say 250 years, would alter the whole scheme of the world! But to pursue that phase of the subject one must leave the field of science and enter the realms of philosophical speculation and poetry, and I don't think an old physician like myself can be called to do that.
